

Leaked STL witness list ‘inaccurate’: spokesman

BEIRUT: The Special Tribunal for Lebanon said Wednesday a list of witness names leaked on a website Tuesday was inaccurate.

“The list of persons that could be placed at risk by this irresponsible website is not an accurate reflection of official court records,” said STL spokesman Marten Youssef.

“This attempt to intimidate witnesses does not advance the cause of justice in Lebanon.”

Al-Mustaqbal newspaper’s website was hacked and its front page replaced with a list of names under the title “Secret witnesses in the Special Tribunal for Lebanon (Group #1)” from a website called “Journalists for the Truth.” Among those listed was touch mobile network’s IT manager.
